About BRLF:

Bharat Rural Livelihoods Foundation (BRLF) is an autonomous organization established under the Societies Registration Act by the Government of India. Our primary goal is to facilitate civil society action in collaboration with State and Central Governments to empower rural households and transform their livelihoods. You can also visit www.brlf.in for more information.

Research and Knowledge Management

BRLF recognises the importance of co-creating an evidence-based dynamic body of knowledge with the capacity to inform key policies, intervention strategies and models of organising effective collaborative action. The organisation seeks to establish a robust knowledge and learning infrastructure that enables real-time data capture and strategic inputs for intervention design and policy reform through evidence-based decision-making and reflective action. The research and knowledge management initiatives of BRLF scaffold effective engagement of key stakeholders with the existing body of knowledge and enable optimum opportunities for crafting self-learning systems and processes.

In this regard, BRLF is committed to creating knowledge and practice support resources that enhance the outcomes of sustainable livelihood initiatives by the government and CSOs.
